SADD COMPANY LOSES.

Judge Webb Decides Appeal in Favor of Assessors and Board of Relief.

The T. R. Sadd company of this city has lost its appeal to the superior court from the valuation placed on its property by the town assessors on the list of 1913. The case was tried here before Judge James H. Webb at the May term of the superior court. In his decision Judge Webb does reduce one of the valuations. That is on the plant which the company owns and uses for the purpose of furnishing electricity in the Sadd and McAvoy blocks. The assessors had valued that at $3,500 and Judge Webb reduces it to $1,500. This Judge Webb says in his decision he would consider a fair market value for the plant. No costs are to be taxed against either parties. The decision was most satisfactory to the town was most satisfactory to the town assessors and the board of relief be-cause it sustained them practically WAR, AUTOS, JITNEYS. Blamed by C. V. Passenger Agent for Taking Off Two Trains.

eneral Passenger Agent Hanley of Central Vermont railroad has written a letter to Mayor Daniel P. Dunn giving the road's reasons for taking off the south-bound passenger train in the morning and the north-bound train in the afternoon. He states that while the company deplored this very much, it had to do it as a business proposition. He states that none of the passenger trains on the southern division o fthe road pay their expenses. The cause for this he attributes to business depression, the war, increased use of aupression, the war, increased use of automobiles and now the fitney service. In taking off these trains there are leftleft three passenger trains between Palmer and New London.
